Wednesday, November 3. 1714.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Provost, Baillies, Dean of Gild, Treasurer and Town-Council of the Borough of Montrose, in that Part of Great-Britain called Scotland, for themselves, and in Name of the Community of the said Borough; presented by Collonel John Middleton their Representative in Parliament, introduced by his Grace the Duke of Argyle, and received very graciously.

Most Sacred Soveraign,

WE your Majesty's most Loyal and Dutiful Subjects humbly beg Leave (among the vast Crowds of your Addessing loving Subjects, whose universal and unanimous Joy much add to your Satisfaction) humbly to approach your sacred Presence with the greatest warmth of our Affections and most sincere zeal of our Spirits, to express the lively Sense we have of these mighty Blessings that must infallibly accrue to all your Subjects by your Accession to the British Crown, heartily congratulating your Majesty upon your safe Arrival, and being peaceably settled in the supreme Government of this Island, and by your Presence dissipating all that Melancholy and Grief, with which the Loss of her late Majesty Queen Anne of blessed Memory had affected us. When we consider your Majesty's consummate Wisdom, Knowledge, and long Experience in all the Arts of Government, and the many signal Proofs you have given of your singular Abilities, both as a Prince and as a General, by which you have demonstrated that you are equally skilful in managing the Scepter as the Sword, we cannot but promise our selves from your Majesty's Government, unless we will be obstinately hardened against our own Interest, all the Blessings can be enjoyed or expected in time of Peace from a wise, steady, and mild Prince, and all the Advantages can be acquired in the time of War from the Conduct of a truely brave, magnanimous, and experienced General. We cannot likewise omit to represent unto your Majesty our infinite Satisfaction in that by your Majesty's happy Accession to the British Throne, and Promises from thence, we are not only beyond all Dispute secured from Encroachment upon, or Infringment of any of our Civil Rights; but that also thereby we are freed from all possible fears of being disturbed in our Religious Concerns, by the restless and intriguing trafficking of the inveterate Enemies of the Protestant Religion the Papists and their Abettors; and that as your Majesty being presently on the Throne ascertains these things to us, so does the growing Greatness and increasing Number of your Royal Family give the joyful Prospect of having these so valuable Blessings continued under the auspicious Influences of your Royal Progeny to our latest Posterity.

We think our selves by these glorious things we expect under your gracious Government, indispensibly bound to assure your Majesty that we cannot be so ungrateful to your Majesty, or so blindly unjust to our selves as not to think we are bound by all the tyes of Conscience and Interest, to sacrifice willingly our Lives and Fortunes for your Majesty's Service, and support of your Majesty's just Title and Government, which we hereby with all Sincerity and Zeal engage our selves to do.

We heartily pray to Almighty God, that after this Island has long been made happy with the Blessings we are sure to enjoy from your wise and mild Government, they may be transmitted to our Posterity by a constant Succession of Royal Princes of your Majesty's Loyns and August Family, Inheritors of your Soveraignty, your shining and accomplished Virtues, and the Hearts and Affections of all over whom they Reign.

May it please your sacred Majesty,
Your Majesty's most faithful Subjects and dutiful humble Servants.

Petersburg, Oct. 12. 'On the 30th of the last Month the young Princess lately born was baptized. The Princess Natholia, Sister to the Czar, was Godmother, and gave her the Name of Margarita Maria. His Highness the Prince of Muscovy was Godfather, together with the Emperour and [illegible] King of Great-Britain, who were represented [illegible] Prince Menzikof and the Grand Chancellor. Preparations are making for a great and perhaps the most extraordinary Masquerade that has been seen, upon Occasion of the Marriage of [illegible] old Man of 80 Years of Age named Zotoff, [illegible] who bears the Title of Patriarch, to a young Woman of 25. The foreign Ministers are invited to appear at that Masque, and every one is preparing to play his Part in it. On the 9th Instant was celebrated the Day of Lowenhaubt, and the same Day a Man of War of 60 Guns was launched. The Feast will be made on board that Ship, which is named Shlusselbourg. M. Bestuskof, Gentleman of the Chamber, being arrived with the Notification of the Death of the Queen of Great-Britain, the Court is gone into Mourning. We expect with impatience an Express from Admiral Apraxin, to know the Success of the Expedition he was to undertake.

Hamburg, Nov. 2. 'Yesterday Count Welling went hence for Haarbourg, whence he is to pass to Straelsund before he goes to meet the King of Sweden. Before his Departure, he made himself a very plain Suit, with Copper Buttons gilt, to appear with the more Grace before that Prince. The Duke Administrator will set forward in two or three Days, having already sent many of his Domesticks to Rutin. We hear that the Spouse of Stanislaus, and the Envoy Bassewitz, are arrived at Straelsund from Sweden; the latter hath taken an Oath to the young Duke of Holstein as his Minister, and goes directly to meet the King of Sweden, to make a verbal Report to him of all that has happened for some time past. Baron Gortz, altho' he be sick, has caus'd himself to be carried to Hermanstadt, to be one of the first who speak with that King, who is already prejudiced against the Conduct of the Senate of Stockholm, and in favour of the Minister of Gottorp. We learn also by Letters from Stockholm of the 20th of October, that the last Courier from that Prince, Lieutenant-Collonel Grol, has brought Orders, by which the Senate is quite changed, his Majesty having put all the Affairs of State into the Hands of the Counts Horn and Cronhielm, who will have under them the Chancellor Muller, and Lilienstedt, Frecendorf, Stande, and Bark, these last being named Secretaries of State. The Military State is put under the Direction of Monsieur Fief, and the Sieur Falstrom is created one of the Senators. Lieutenant-General Lieven has advised the Court of Vienna of the actual Departure of the King of Sweden, and that that Prince will by no means consent that the young Duke of Gottorp shall be declared Major. One Abensur, who negociated the Affairs of France under the Title of Resident to Stanislaus, was arrested two Days ago at the Request of Count Welling, who had obtained the Permission of Stanislaus for doing it; and he is already carried to Winsen upon the Elbe, whence he will be transported to Wismar or Straelsund; he has talk'd very ill Things of Count Welling in his Relations to the King of Sweden, but that Prince has thought fit to send the Count all those Papers, which confirm the King's favourable Disposition towards the Minister of Gottorp.

Hague, Nov. 6. 'The French Ambassador M. de Chateauneuf has seemed very uneasy since he received the News of the Conference which Mr. Stanhope had with M. Iberville at London concerning the new Port of Mardyke: And that Minister instead of Conferring upon it presently with the Pensionary or the Deputies of the States, went away to Amsterdam, where during the six Days that he tarried he visited the Burgomasters and the principal Persons of that City, to put them in mind and urge the Value of the important Services which the King his Master has done them lately in procuring for them the Peace with Spain; assuring them at the same time of the great Inclination his most Christian Majesty has for giving upon all Occasions still greater Marks of his Amity and Good Will to this Republick. And to discover their Dispositions he asked them from time to time, if they were content? If after all his King had done for them his Majesty add not Reason to be perswaded that they will not easily be provoked against him? After which he proposed to them many plausible Projects, Advantagious in Appearance to this State: Among others, that France, to remove all Jealousy, and to put itself upon the same Foot with England and Holland, the King will forbid all his Subjects upon pain of the Galleys or Death, to send Ships into the South Sea, provided the States will likewise forbid their their Subjects upon the like Penalties to send their Ships to Curaçao, the West Indies, or the South-Sea. Upon the first Head he was answered in General and civil Terms, that this Republick was always for Peace; but for what relates to the last Proposition, they will take it only ad referendum, being at the same time well informed that France has sent so many Ships, and so much Merchandize into the West-Indies this Year, that there is no room for them or any other Nation to send any thither for some time to come without Loss. This Minister at the same time reclaimed a Freeman, who was banished, and is confined in an Island of the East-Indies belonging to the Hollanders; but for that they refer'd him to the East-India Company, who answered, That they would write about it, and will communicate to him the first Informations they shall receive from their Governour in that Country. Before he went from Amsterdam, he told the Burgomasters that he would return thither very soon, but those Magistrates not loving to receive such sort of Visits, excused themselves as much as they could, and referred him to the Centre of their Negotiations, which is at the Hague. The same Minister has since given in a Memorial to the States-General, concerning six French Ships which were declared good Prize, pretending that they were taken after the time wherein Hostilities ought to have ceased on both Sides. The States have sent his Memorial to the Admiralty to be answered. 'Tis observed that he has made use of Terms much more moderate in this Affair than has been used heretofore.

'A very ingenious Project for Uniting the two Companies of the East and West-Indies is lately come forth here, which appearing equally advantageous for both Companies, 'tis believed they will suddenly enter into a Treaty together upon it.

'They write from Antwerp, that printed Libels are dispersed there as well as at Brussels, to refute the Pretentions of the States concerning the Barrier; and some of them are filled with Invectives against the present Administration, which makes it judg'd that those Libels owe their Birth to the Regency which was broken some time ago.

'The Minister of Hesse-Cassel is not yet set forward towards the Court of France, as we said in our last he intended to do; 'tis supposed he has made Report to his Court of the Jealousie that was raised on all sides from that Voyage, and therefore waits the further Orders of his Master.
